

Investment Brief — March 15, 2026

Coverage Period: March 8 – March 15, 2026

Market Snapshot

Market	Level	7D Change	Trend
BTC	$71,700	+12% off $63K low	Up (recovering)
ETH	$2,115	Recovered from $1,912 low	Up (recovering)
S&P; 500	6,632	-1.6%	Down (3rd consecutive weekly loss)
NASDAQ	22,105	-1.3%	Down
DXY	100.5	+3.7% (1 month)	Up (10-month high)
10Y Yield	4.27%	Near 4-week highs	Up
Crypto Market Cap	~$2.45T	~Flat after prior sell-off	Flat
BTC Dominance	57%	—	Flat

Key macro developments: Stagflation fears are dominating — oil spiked (Iran/Strait of Hormuz conflict) while February payrolls came in at -92K and Q4 GDP was revised to +1.4%. Equities are down for three consecutive weeks, hitting their lowest close since November 2025. Crypto partially decoupled: BTC recovered off March 9 lows ($63K) driven by $1.3B+ in ETF inflows MTD and BlackRock's iShares Staked Ethereum Trust launching on Nasdaq.

Upcoming catalysts:

- March 17–18: FOMC meeting — rate decision (92%+ probability of hold), updated dot plot, Powell presser (2:30 PM ET March 18). A shift to 0 cuts in the dot plot would be immediately bearish for risk assets.
- ~March 18–19: February CPI/PPI — energy component critical given oil spike
- Ongoing: Iran/Strait of Hormuz developments — oil trajectory remains the primary macro wildcard; US SPR at ~9-day reserve
- Ongoing: US Digital Asset Market Clarity Act (SEC/CFTC jurisdictional clarity) advancing in Congress

Consensus Stance Table

Assets mentioned by 2+ traders only.

Asset	Bullish	Bearish	Neutral/Flat	Net Sentiment
BTC	Pentoshi, Anbessa, Myles G, IncomeSharks	Quinn Thompson, Benjamin Cowen, CavanXY	TraderMayne, Bluntz, Mercury (ST bullish/HT bearish), DonAlt (sidelines), Insomniac, CredibleCrypto	Mixed — intense disagreement
ETH	—	CryptoCondom, IncomeSharks	—	Bearish lean
SOL	—	Insomniac	TraderMayne	Bearish lean
SPX/Equities	—	Quinn Thompson, Bob Loukas, TraderMayne, ColdBloodedShiller, Forward Guidance, Noodles, Feyronn, ExitLiqNick, Smiley	—	Strongly Bearish
Gold	Quinn Thompson, Bob Loukas, Forward Guidance	—	—	Bullish consensus
USD/DXY	Bob Loukas, Fejau, Smiley, IncomeSharks, Forward Guidance	Quinn Thompson (medium-term)	—	Bullish (near-term)
Oil/Energy (XLE)	Quinn Thompson, Smiley, CryptoCondom (ET), Plur Daddy, BattleRhino, IncomeSharks	—	—	Bullish consensus
Agriculture (CORN/WHEAT)	Quinn Thompson (largest position), Citrini, ExitLiqNick	—	—	Bullish consensus
HYPE	Insomniac, Cold BloodedShiller, Smiley	—	—	Bullish
XRP	Myles G, CredibleCrypto	—	—	Bullish
Uranium (URNM)	Insomniac, Bluntz	—	—	Bullish

Notable disagreements:

- BTC: The most contested asset. Pentoshi, Anbessa, and Myles G are explicitly long/bullish. Quinn Thompson and Benjamin Cowen are explicitly bearish (Quinn: "today's crypto buyers won't be happy in 2 weeks"; Cowen: "4-year cycle bear market confirmed"). Mercury and ColdBloodedShiller sit in the middle — watching whether crypto can sustain a genuine decorrelation from equities for the first time in 8 years.
- USD: Quinn Thompson is medium-term bearish (NIIP headwinds, capital flow reversal); Fejau, Bob Loukas, and IncomeSharks are near-term bullish (oil shock hits Europe/Asia harder).
- BTC 4-year cycle: Benjamin Cowen says the cycle is intact and BTC is in a bear market. Myles G says a massive move is imminent. Pentoshi is holding longs from $68.5K with $74–80K targets.

Tier 1 — Deep Analysis (Substack Traders)

Citrini — @Citrini7

Source: "Let There Be Light" — Published March 12, 2026 (paid)

Key Thesis: The original AI optics trade (CIEN, COHR, LITE called near 52-week lows in 2024) has tripled. LITE/CIEN/COHR are now "priced for perfection" — Citrini is taking partial profits there and rotating into less-crowded photonic component and CPO (co-packaged optics) names further down the supply chain. Hyperscaler capex at $650–700B in 2026 creates the next bandwidth bottleneck. Separately, the Iran/Hormuz conflict maps directly to Russia-Ukraine-era commodity trades.

Stance Table:

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
LITE, CIEN, COHR (optics basket)	Neutral / Trim	Medium-term	Up 3x+ from original call; now "priced for perfection" — consider profit-taking, not exiting the theme
Next-gen photonics / CPO supply chain	Bullish	Medium/Long-term	Undervalued vs. LITE's run; next asymmetry in AI infrastructure buildout
AI capex theme (hyperscalers)	Bullish	Long-term	$650–700B in capex 2026; "relentless" buildout
Crude oil	Bullish (Iran trade)	Short/Medium-term	Hormuz disruption = same trade that worked in Ukraine; oil short-squeeze likely
Agricultural commodities / Fertilizer (UAN)	Bullish	Short/Medium-term	"Hello UAN my old friend" — Hormuz closure disrupts fertilizer shipping routes
Banks	Bearish	Short-term	"Tough environment for banks next couple quarters"
Equities broadly	Cautious/Bearish	Short-term	Any Hormuz relief rally = fade, not chase; would produce countertrend bounce that fails to make higher highs

Notable Levels or Targets: LITE/CIEN/COHR — trim into strength. Proprietary CPO/photonics name (behind paywall) flagged as the asymmetric play. On geopolitics: "Let's say hypothetically the strait opens tomorrow. Rally to ATH? I would be pretty wary — a solid setup for a countertrend rally that fails to make higher highs."

Quinn Thompson — @qthomp

Sources: "Scouting the Tape — Mar 13, 2026" (public) + "Forward Guidance Chartbook — Mar 13" — Published March 13, 2026

Key Thesis: Maximum bear mode across equities, bonds, and crypto. "Stop buying the little dips — the big dip is coming." The Iran/Hormuz conflict is a multi-month structural disruption (Russia-Ukraine analog, not a brief skirmish). Short NVDA as the most vulnerable S&P; constituent. Long the entire agricultural complex as his highest-conviction position — ~1/3 of global seaborne fertilizer transits Hormuz, hitting at peak spring planting season with non-commercial positioning still net short. Gold is the only real store of value when bonds are broken.

Stance Table:

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
Agricultural commodities (CANE, CORN, WHEAT, soybeans)	Strongly Bullish	Short/Medium-term	"Largest long position and it's not close." Hormuz disruption at peak planting season; farm bankruptcies surging; non-commercial still net short = contrarian setup
Gold (GLD, GDX)	Strongly Bullish	Medium/Long-term	"You will not see me get bearish gold anytime soon." Fed balance sheet expanding, bonds broken, dollar structurally at risk
Oil & Gas equities (XLE)	Bullish	Short/Medium-term	XLE stopped rallying with front-month crude — positioning artifact, not fundamental change
NVDA	Bearish	Short/Medium-term	SHORT entry ~$186; ~8% of S&P; = most vulnerable single name
Semiconductors broadly	Bearish	Short/Medium-term	"Topped, especially relative to the market"
Equities (SPX/QQQ)	Bearish	Short/Medium-term	Path of least resistance down; correlations rising
Crypto (BTC and majors)	Bearish	Short-term	"Today's cryptocurrency buyers are not going to be happy campers in 2 weeks" (Mar 13)
Bitcoin mining economics	Bearish	Medium-term	Hashrate headwind from AI compute competition; "large underappreciated headwind"
Long-duration sovereign bonds	Strongly Bearish	Ongoing	"Bonds-R-F'd." Weekly reminder.
US Dollar	Bearish	Medium-term	NIIP at historic highs creates capital flow headwinds
Berkshire Hathaway	Implicitly Bullish	Medium-term	"We have likely seen the top in jokes about Buffett's cash levels and a bottom in Berkshire relative to S&P;"

Notable Levels or Targets:

- NVDA short: Entry ~$186, stop $192 weekly close, target $140–$150
- LONG: CANE, CORN, WHEAT (full agricultural complex)
- QQQ chart titled "The Stairs to Humpty's Castle" — telegraphing anticipated sharp decline

Insomniac — @insomniacxbt

Sources: "3.13.26 — cautiously cautious" (video-only, paid) + "3.10.26 — strength in our coins" (paid) — Published March 10–13, 2026

Key Thesis: Running a selective altcoin spot book focused on names showing genuine structural strength despite broad market weakness: TAO, HYPE, ZRO, Morpho, VVV. Treating BTC as a range — any weakness toward $74K is a derisking signal for alt exposure. Bearish on SOL structurally ("nothing convinces me we've bottomed"). Title "cautiously cautious" — not shorting, but not aggressively adding to majors.

Stance Table:

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
TAO (Bittensor)	Strongly Bullish	Short/Medium-term	"$200 pivot confirmed." Targets $270–280 (already hit — +35% in 3 days). "Easiest AI macro bet in crypto."
HYPE (Hyperliquid)	Bullish	Short/Medium-term	Breaking trend, "it's time." Up 27% in period. "What Solana wanted to be, HYPE has done." Inverse needs to break 35; next resistance at 50.
ZRO	Bullish	Medium-term	+120% vs BTC YTD. Continuing strength.
Morpho	Bullish	Medium-term	First-round pick alongside ZRO
URNM (uranium miners)	Bullish	Medium-term	"Very strong chart." Pivot at $68 — good re-entry.
BTC	Neutral	Short-term	"Looks like a range, acts like a range." $74K = derisking trigger for alt exposure. Not shorting.
SOL	Bearish	Medium/Long-term	Legs down: $240 → $140 → $70–80s. "Nothing on a structural POV convinces me we've bottomed." Won't touch it.
Crypto majors broadly	Bearish	Short-term	"Still remain bearish on majors" — BTC range = ceiling for majors

Notable Levels or Targets:

- TAO: Bought near $195–200 pivot; $270–280 next resistance (hit Mar 14–15)
- HYPE: Break of 35 inverse needed; next resistance at 50
- URMN: Re-entry near $68 pivot
- BTC: $74K = derisking trigger for the alt book

Tier 2 — Video & Social Commentary (YouTube + X Traders)

Bob Loukas — @BobLoukas

Source: X/Twitter — March 11–13, 2026 | YouTube: No videos this week | bitcoin.live: Access denied (401)

Key Thesis: Believes there is a good chance equities have peaked for their 4-Year Cycle. Has raised active portfolios to 33% cash and plans further selling on confirmation. Dollar made a 10-month high (bullish signal). Gold is "tremendously strong" despite being in the declining phase of its weekly cycle — consistent with prior two cycles.

Stance Table:

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
Equities	Bearish	Multi-month (pain into mid-May)	"Good chance stocks have peaked for their 4-Year Cycle." Daily cycle breaking down. Raised cash to 33%.
US Dollar	Bullish	Near-term	10-month high; week 6 of cycle; higher high printed = risk-off confirmation
Gold	Bullish	Medium-term	"Tremendously strong" — refusing to give back ground in declining weekly cycle phase = same pattern as prior two cycles

Notable Levels or Targets: 33% cash raised; plans to sell more on further confirmation. Pain expected into mid-May (next Daily Cycle Low timing).

TraderMayne — @Tradermayne

Sources: X/Twitter + YouTube (4 videos, transcripts unavailable) + Discord PA Palace — March 11–14, 2026

Key Thesis: Short US equities (US500 short held at 2R+); expects more downside over coming months with bounces and consolidations along the way. On BTC: "bulls gotta unfuck this pretty soon or we're going to range lows." Flagging FOMC + Iran + weekend = volatility cocktail.

Stance Table:

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
US500 / Equities	Bearish	Multi-month swing	"Called the breakdown, held the short for some time." 2R+ in profit. "Lots more downside in coming months."
BTC	Cautious/Neutral	Short-term	Range highs with daily SFP signal. "Bulls gotta unfuck this soon or we're going to range lows." Skeptical of BTC/SPX decorrelation: "usually it just means BTC is lagging."
Gold ($XAUUSD)	Cautiously Bullish	Near-term	Watching for key level reclaim for "another leg up"

Notable Levels or Targets: YouTube video title "Do NOT Long BTC Unless This Happens!" — conditions for a long not currently met. FOMC next week cited as major volatility catalyst. Discord Mar 14: "War happening, weekend coming. FOMC next week. Volatility coming."

ColdBloodedShiller — @ColdBloodShill

Source: X/Twitter — March 11–14, 2026 | YouTube: No videos this week

Key Thesis: Equities at 6-month lows. Crypto holding up well relative to equities — but historically, this decorrelation is "a kiss of death" for markets, not a positive. Bear divergence now playing out with RSI crossing 50 and AO moving below 0. Select altcoin opportunities (OP, HYPE) despite macro headwinds.

Stance Table:

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
Equities (indexes)	Bearish	Near-term	Lowest daily close in 6 months.
Crypto (general)	Cautious/Bearish	Near-term	"Historically this [crypto outperformance vs. equities] isn't a positive thing." Bear divergence playing out — "the ship has begun sinking."
OP (Optimism)	Bullish	Unspecified	"If you missed the OP cycle, this is your opportunity"
HYPE	Bullish	Near-term	Final TP target still pending; "clean mover"

Mercury — @TraderMercury

Sources: X/Twitter + Discord (Trend Respectooooors) — March 9–14, 2026 | YouTube: No videos this week

Key Thesis: Structurally bearish on crypto at the higher timeframe — crypto has never sustained meaningful outperformance against weakening equities in 8 years. However, BTC is forming what looks like a breakout attempt. Using 6H and 12H 200MAs as the key thresholds. If 12H 200MAs (~$80–81K) are reached, that's the likely lower high zone on the Weekly Market Structure. "I've never wanted to be wrong this badly" — acknowledges a genuine decorrelation would be a generational opportunity.

Stance Table:

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
BTC	Cautiously Bullish (ST) / Bearish (HT)	Short-term breakout vs. higher-timeframe bear	6H 200MAs = breakout threshold. 12H 200MAs (~$80–81K) = next target AND likely lower high/distribution zone on weekly structure.
Equities (SPY)	N/A — using as context	—	SPY broke 10-month uptrend for the first time; headwind for any crypto rally

Notable Levels or Targets:

- 6H 200MA = current breakout threshold (must reclaim to shift view positive)
- 12H 200MAs ≈ $80–81K = first major target if breakout confirms, AND likely lower high zone
- "Either BTC breaks out and altcoin rotations begin in coming weeks, or everything goes to hades again."

DonAlt — @DonAlt

Source: X/Twitter — March 9–14, 2026 | YouTube: No videos this week

Key Thesis: Sitting on the sidelines. "Would probably be buying crypto right now if the US hadn't been so aggressive in destabilizing the global economy." Geopolitical risk from US Iran policy is keeping him out. No active calls.

Stance Table:

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
Crypto (general)	Neutral / Sidelines	Near-term	"Just gonna chill a bit longer in case they succeed in nuking the world economy."

Forward Guidance — @ForwardGuidance

Sources: "Why the Oil Shock Could Trigger a Global Recession" (Mar 13, guests: Quinn Thompson + Fejau) + "The Global Economy Is Splitting Into Spheres" (Mar 11, guest: Eric Wallerstein) | Transcripts unavailable; content reconstructed from tweet threads

Key Thesis: "One of the most dangerous macro setups in years." Oil shock colliding with weakening labor data (-92K jobs in February) and fragile equity positioning. Bonds are no longer a safe haven (leveraged hedge fund basis trades = bonds sell alongside equities). Max pain structure: investors are heavily long, puts are too expensive, market grinds lower. Dollar and gold are the structural beneficiaries.

Stance Table:

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
Oil / Energy	Bearish on economy (bullish on price)	Near-term	Hormuz disruption; US SPR at ~9-day reserve; Trump's "stop loss" is $200 oil; above that, policy forced to pivot
Equities	Bearish	Near-term	"Max pain" structure — everyone hedged with expensive puts, long exposure intact, market grinds lower. Jobs data clear downtrend.
US Dollar	Bullish near-term	Short/Medium-term	Oil shock hits Europe/Asia harder; capital flows to USD; no secret "weak dollar" strategy
Gold	Structurally Bullish	Long-term	Massive deficits, Fed QE-lite ongoing, bonds unattractive. Near-term dollar strength = temporary pressure, not trend change.

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
US Treasuries	Bearish as safe haven	Ongoing	"Bonds no longer hedging." Basis trade unwind = bonds sell alongside equities.
Agriculture / Food	Watch/Risk	Near-term	Energy disruptions hitting fertilizer, fuel, planting cycles. If disruptions extend past spring, food supply tightens dramatically.
Latin America assets	Opportunistic Bullish	Long-term	LATAM benefits from geopolitical bloc formation — proximity to US, natural resources, power infrastructure (Wallerstein view)

Myles G Investments — @MylesGinvest

Sources: X/Twitter + YouTube (6 videos, transcripts unavailable) — March 12–15, 2026

Key Thesis: Broadly bullish on crypto — "the big move is coming." X Money (Elon Musk's payments product on X) is a "massive bullish catalyst most people are unaware of." Flagged an "insider" source saying crypto pumps big after March 21 (treat with caution — his words, not verified).

Stance Table:

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
BTC	Bullish	Near-term	$98K upside target; dismissed $30K bearish calls; though acknowledged $75K as possible downside first
XRP	Bullish	Near-term	Multiple videos on Mastercard integration as "major catalyst"
DOGE	Bullish	Near-term	"Dogecoin will pump hard soon"; X Money / Elon narrative

Note: Myles G's content is primarily retail-facing hype-driven videos. Treat directional calls with appropriate skepticism.

CredibleCrypto — @CredibleCrypto

Source: X/Twitter — March 8–14, 2026 | YouTube: No videos this week

Key Thesis: BTC is at range highs = "most logical place for another rejection if we aren't ready to escape this range yet." Expects possible retest of local lows before a breakout. Stablecoin infrastructure (CRV/CVX) is the highest-conviction current play. Long-term structurally bullish — "fading crypto at $2.4T market cap while Mastercard builds out crypto infrastructure is foolish."

Stance Table:

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
BTC	Neutral/Cautious	Short-term	At range highs = likely rejection zone. Possible retest of local lows before breakout.
CRV (Curve)	Bullish	Unspecified	"Stablecoin infra is the play. It has never been more obvious." Strong price action post-article.
CVX (Convex)	Bullish	Unspecified	Grouped with CRV as core stablecoin infrastructure play
XRP	Bullish	Unspecified	"Don't bet against $XRP" with chart showing strength

Benjamin Cowen — @intocryptoverse

Sources: X/Twitter + YouTube (5 videos, transcripts unavailable) — March 10–14, 2026

Key Thesis: The 4-year cycle is intact and did not die. BTC topped at the end of the post-halving year exactly as in previous cycles and is now in a bear market. The current March rally is a historically normal bear market occurrence, not a trend reversal. Rising DXY and oil are macro headwinds that complicate any rate cuts.

Stance Table:

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
BTC	Bearish	Medium-term (2026)	"BTC topped when it always does." BTC/Gold ratio = same as late 2017. Lower highs, fading rallies, weakening participation = classic bear market structure. New lows likely ahead.
S&P; 500	Cautious/Bearish	Near-term	Already -5%. If -10%+ triggers, negative feedback loop (layoffs/claims) could follow. As of Mar 13, loop had NOT yet triggered.
DXY	Bearish for risk assets	Near-term	Starting to move like early 2018 — "tighten global liquidity even further." Major macro headwind for all risk assets.

YouTube videos this week (titles confirm thesis — transcripts unavailable):

- "Bitcoin: The Four Year Cycle Did Not Die" (Mar 12)
- "Bitcoin Price Action: Analysis vs Cheerleaders" (Mar 11)
- "Bitcoin's Harsh Reality — Why Narratives Fail" (Mar 10)
- "Bitcoin: The Structure of a Bear Market" (Mar 10)

Tier 3 — Brief Mentions (X-Only Traders)

Trader	Asset	Stance	Note	Source
Pentoshi	BTC	Bullish	Holding from $68.5K avg; $74–80K targets intact; "institutional bid returning for first time in weeks"	@Pentosh1, Mar 10
Fejau	USD	Bullish	"Dollar is coming for everyone" — oil shock hits Europe/Asia 100x harder	@fejau_inc, Mar 14–15
Fejau	EUR/Asian FX	Bearish	Hormuz closure hits import-dependent economies	@fejau_inc, Mar 15

Trader	Asset	Stance	Note	Source
Follis	Altcoins	Bearish	"-90% can go -90% more; slowly going to zero." ADA -93% from highs used as example	@follis_, Mar 11–12
Follis	BTC	Neutral	"Consolidation at resistance" — no directional call, monitoring	@follis_, Mar 12
Smiley	Crypto (general)	Bearish	~90% flat since August; fading the rally; "not close to an actionable bottom"	@smileycapital, Mar 11–13
Smiley	HYPE	Mild bullish	"Only coin comfortable holding right now"	@smileycapital, Mar 13
Smiley	Oil (CL)	Long	Hedge; Hormuz war not resolved, Trump in bad political position	@smileycapital, Mar 12–14
Smiley	USD	Long	Oil shock hurts rest of world more; risk-off dollar bid	@smileycapital, Mar 14
Smiley	PLTR, ORCL	Long	AI infrastructure longs	@smileycapital, Mar 11–13
IncomeSharks	BTC	Cautiously Bullish	OBV "waking up and getting stronger" — wants follow-through	@IncomeSharks, Mar 12–13
IncomeSharks	ETH	Neutral/Bearish	SuperTrend still bearish since Oct 10; acting as sell wall	@IncomeSharks, Mar 13
IncomeSharks	XLE (energy)	Bullish	12th consecutive green week, +30%	@IncomeSharks, Mar 13
IncomeSharks	DXY/UUP	Bullish	Breaking above $100; 7–10% upside on UUP	@IncomeSharks, Mar 12–13

Trader	Asset	Stance	Note	Source
CryptoCondom	BTC	Cautious	Perp longs + spot selling at $72–74K resistance = "not great"	@crypto_condom, Mar 13
CryptoCondom	ETH	Bearish lean	Ethereum Foundation selling at market hurts free-market participants	@crypto_condom, Mar 14
CryptoCondom	JPM / Large banks	Short	Credit crisis thesis; private debt market imploding (masked by war headlines)	@crypto_condom, Mar 12
CryptoCondom	CVNA	Short	"Destined for zero"; below $300 = "look out below"	@crypto_condom, Mar 12
CryptoCondom	ET (Energy Transfer)	Long	Added spot; hedged	@crypto_condom, Mar 13
ExitLiqNick	Equities	Short	Holding deep ITM puts	@ExitLiqCapital, Mar 13
ExitLiqNick	Corn	Long	"Short equities long corn" — commodity vs. equity divergence play	@ExitLiqCapital, Mar 13
Bluntz	BTC	Flat	SFP on 12H; went flat waiting for resolution	@Bluntz_Capital, Mar 13
Bluntz	SOL	Flat (cautiously bullish)	Went flat after SFP; but funding negative for a month = historically precedes large upside	@Bluntz_Capital, Mar 8–13
Bluntz	URNM/URA	Bullish	Buyable dip; reversal candles; "Europe realizing energy mistake"	@Bluntz_Capital, Mar 10–11

Trader	Asset	Stance	Note	Source
Bluntz	Copper miners	Bullish	ABC correction complete; reclaiming breakdown levels; expects fresh highs	@Bluntz_Capital, Mar 9
Anbessa	BTC	Bullish	"Range perfection"; trendlines working; "full" positioning	@Anbessa100, Mar 13–15
Feyronn	S&P; 500	Bearish	10–20% drop expected; metal s-to-equities contagion pattern	@feyronn, Mar 8
CavanXY	BTC	Bearish	"70K buyers gonna find themselves in trouble in a couple of weeks"	@CavanXy, Mar 10
CavanXY	Bonds (MOVE)	Cautious	Bond volatility spiking to March banking crisis levels; 2022 fractal	@CavanXy, Mar 13
Giver	All assets	Bearish	"All roads lead back to Rome" — everything bad simultaneously, flight to cash	@lazyvillager1, Mar 13
Noodles	S&P; 500	Bearish	"Pico top" chart; global recession risk	@criptopaul, Mar 9
Plur Daddy	Oil	Bullish	"Crude prices suppressed by administration"; real risk underpriced	@plur_daddy, Mar 11
BattleRhino	Oil	Bullish	Vindicated oil bull — "still infinitely higher than when genius said it was a fade"	@IBattleRhino, Mar 12

Trader	Asset	Stance	Note	Source
Loma	—	No calls	War-dependent positioning; asked if war resolved before expressing views	@LomahCrypto

No market commentary found for: Michael Paik (@paik_michael — no tweets), HDF (@PaikCapital — no directional calls), Blockworks (@Blockworks_ — account not found)

Key Themes This Week

Iran/Strait of Hormuz is the macro event of the cycle — not a brief skirmish: Citrini, Quinn Thompson, Forward Guidance, Fejau, TraderMayne, Smiley, and Plur Daddy are all treating the Hormuz disruption as a structural event with multi-month implications. Quinn and Citrini both explicitly drew the Russia-Ukraine commodity trade parallel. Quinn Thompson's oil shock podcast with Fejau frames it as a potential global recession trigger. Near-universal agreement that this isn't being fully priced.

Equities have a clear consensus: path of least resistance is down: Bob Loukas (potential 4-Year Cycle peak, raised 33% cash), Quinn Thompson (short NVDA), TraderMayne (short US500, 2R+), ColdBloodedShiller (6-month lows), Forward Guidance, Noodles, Feyronn, ExitLiqNick, and Smiley are all bearish. Not a single tracked trader made a bullish equities call this week.

BTC at maximum uncertainty — the decorrelation question is live: Mercury put it best: "I've never wanted to be wrong this badly." The core debate is whether BTC can sustain outperformance vs. equities for the first time in 8 years. Bears (Cowen, Quinn, CavanXY) say it can't and is in a bear market. Bulls (Pentoshi, Anbessa) are holding longs. The middle (Mercury, TraderMayne, ColdBloodedShiller) are watching 6H/12H 200MAs as the resolution key. Mercury's framework is the clearest: 6H 200MA = breakout threshold; 12H 200MAs (~$80–$1K) = first target and likely lower high.

Gold + dollar are the consensus safe havens: Quinn Thompson, Bob Loukas, and Forward Guidance are all explicitly bullish gold. Fejau, Smiley, Bob Loukas, IncomeSharks all bullish near-term dollar. This is the most consistent cross-tier consensus of the week.

Selective altcoins outperforming despite bearish macro: TAO (+35% in 3 days per Insomniac), HYPE (+27%, mentioned by Insomniac, Smiley, and ColdBloodedShiller), ZRO (+120% vs BTC YTD). These names are showing genuine structural strength. Uranium miners (URNM) flagged by both Insomniac and Bluntz. Copper miners flagged by Bluntz.

Agricultural commodities emerging as the high-conviction macro trade: Quinn Thompson (largest position), Citrini (Iran/fertilizer/UAN), and ExitLiqNick (short equities/long corn) are all in this trade. The thesis: Hormuz disruption hits fertilizer shipping at peak spring planting season; non-commercial positioning still net short = contrarian setup. CORN, WHEAT, CANE, UAN are the instruments mentioned.

Actionable Takeaways

- FOMC March 18 is the defining near-term event: Hold position sizing through the event. A dot plot shift to 0 cuts = immediately bearish for risk assets. 92%+ probability of a hold, but Powell's tone and dot plot revisions matter more than the decision itself. TraderMayne: "FOMC next week. Volatility coming."

- NVDA short has multiple high-conviction endorsements: Quinn Thompson's specific trade ($186 entry, $192 stop, $140–150 target) is actionable with defined risk. Bob Loukas also raised cash vs. broad equities. No tracked trader is bullish equities right now.
 - BTC breakout level to watch: Mercury's 6H 200MA is the key threshold. 12H 200MAs (~$80–81K) = first major target if confirmed. Until 6H 200MA clears, the higher-timeframe bear case (Cowen, Quinn) is the structural backdrop. TraderMayne's "bulls gotta unfuck this pretty soon" is the near-term framing.
 - HYPE is the most-cited altcoin across all tiers: Insomniac (bought at $35 inverse level, targeting $50), ColdBloodedShiller (final TP pending), Smiley ("only coin comfortable holding"). Three independent sources, different analytical styles — the convergence is notable.
 - Agricultural commodities have the strongest cross-tier consensus: CORN, WHEAT, CANE, UAN. Spring planting season + Hormuz disruption + net-short non-commercial positioning = Quinn Thompson's "largest position by far." Citrini just re-entered UAN. ExitLiqNick has the same trade. If you're looking for a macro hedge to equity/crypto exposure, this is where multiple high-conviction voices have converged.
 - Gold: buy the dip if DXY strength causes near-term pressure: Quinn Thompson, Bob Loukas, Forward Guidance all structurally bullish. Forward Guidance noted dollar rally could cause temporary gold pressure — that would be the entry, not the exit signal.
-

Brief generated on March 15, 2026

Sources searched: X/Twitter (via API), Substack (via API), YouTube (titles/descriptions; transcripts unavailable this week), Discord (PA Palace, Trend Respectooooors)

Sources NOT accessible: bitcoin.live (401 error), Discord (most channels — only 2 servers partially accessible)

Traders with content found: 24 of 28 tracked

Traders with no content: Michael Paik (no tweets), Blockworks (account not found), HDF (no directional calls), TraderXO (insufficient content — 2 uninformative tweets)